

the sandf

Department:
Defence
REPUBLIC OF SOUTH AFRICA

THE UNIVERSITY RESERVE TRAINING PROGRAMME (URTP): 2014

INTRODUCTION

The SA Army and the SA Military Health Service have announced the roll-out of the URTP to the following Universities in 2014:

- The University of KwaZulu-Natal
- The University of Zululand
- The Durban University of Technology

Students studying through UNISA who are able to attend the recruitment campaign at any of the above Universities and who will be able to attend the training in KZN, will also be invited to apply.

When will the recruitment take place?

During March 2014.

When will the selection take place?

During June 2014.

When will the training commence?

During the December 2014 university vacation.

Who may apply?

Registered students, in their first year of study at the above Universities, may apply.

How to apply?

Application forms will be made available on the campuses during the March recruitment campaign.

Can application forms be submitted electronically or by post?

No.

When and how will the detail of the recruitment campaign be made available?

Early in 2014. On this website/ campus notice boards and campus radio.

Is there information available on the URTP and where can it be found?

Yes. The Charter on the URTP is available on this website.

What can prospective applicants do in the mean time that will expedite the outcome of their eventual applications?

Obtain an Income Tax number from SARS. Visit a dentist and ophthalmologist in order to identify and rectify shortcomings in their general health condition.

Further enquiries can also be directed to Colonel Monica Muller at defres@telkomsa.net