On Friday 1 April 2016, Chief South African National Defence Force (CSANDF), General Solly Shoke paid a special visit to the members of the SANDF who are currently participating at the 2016 Rand Show.

Upon his arrival the Chief visited every stall checking on his members' well being and if they are doing what they are well known for. The Chief visited the Reserve Force stall and was welcomed by Col Shuping Motswadira, SSO Marketing and Promotions who briefed him about his experience in this year's show so far.

Colonel Motswadira elaborated to the Chief that members of the public visited the Reserves' stall in numbers to find more information about the Reserve Force System. He believed that the capability demonstrations played a crucial role in attracting members of the community – many of whom showed interest in joining the force while others expressed their appreciation of the hard work that the SANDF does for South Africa and its people.
